

2026 NYC Web Fest Playbill

Hello everyone,

Welcome to the 13th Annual NYC Web Fest!

What a year it's been. Thirteen years ago, NYC Web Fest started with a simple idea: to give digital storytellers a home in New York City. Today, we're celebrating our largest lineup since 2019 - with web series, short films, pilots, micro-dramas/ verticals and podcasts from filmmakers and podcasters around the world.

To every creator who submitted, thank you. Your stories made it one of the hardest selection years we've ever had, in the best way. And to everyone who's here this weekend to screen, speak on a panel, network or cheer on a friend, you're what makes this festival feel like family.

Speaking of family, having my cousin Kiana and my nephew Justin here this year means more to me than I can say. Thank you both for being part of this.

This year we're proud to host five industry panels covering true stories, podcasting, distribution, comedy and the life of a series, along with speed networking and our awards ceremony. I hope you leave this weekend with new ideas, new collaborators and new friends.

I'd like to thank our 2026 partners, Aux Mode and Backstage, for their support. A huge thank you to the team who makes this festival happen: Zerelda, Mel, Laurie, Todd, Chris, Robert and our wonderful volunteers. And thank you to our jury members, Sean Anthony Baker, Bambadjan Bamba, Jessie Behan, Sally McLean, Britt Migs, Jon Sosis and Lara Toselli, for the time and care they put into this year's lineup.

Last year I wrote that I was more optimistic than ever about where we're headed. This year, I'm proud to say that optimism was well placed. NYC Web Fest keeps growing because of you, and we have some exciting new things in the works behind the scenes. Stay tuned, because the best is yet to come.

Welcome to the 13th Annual NYC Web Fest. We're so happy you're here. Have a wonderful festival!

With Love & Gratitude,

Lauren Atkins
Founder, NYC Web Fest
